SYNOPSIS OF EVENTS.

ACT I.—Home of Mrs Fairmount—The arrival of Leslie Harcourt, old acquaintances—Leonia Darrel, the Adventuress—"We have met before"—Leonia's revenge—Noel Corson, the secretary's oath—Leonia and Noel—The compact—Leslie warns Noel, "Beware of that woman"—The note—Leslie's mistake in trusting Noel—Leslie and Ora—Mike and Jonathan, a bit of history—Happy childhood days—"My trust in Tom Brushleigh has almost made me a poor man"—Leslie warns Ora against her friend, Leonia Darrel—Leonia and Leslie—She works on Leslie's sympathy—The drugged wine—"Now I'll raise that check"—"Leslie Harcourt, you are in my power at last."

ACT II.—Mike plays the ghost and Jonathan parts with a fiver—Noel and Leonia—"When Leslie Harcourt is ruined, I'll be your wife"—The forged check turns up—Dismay of Leslie, he accuses Leonia of raising the check—Arrest of Leslie—Ora proves herself Leslie's friend—Harry Westley rescues his friend—Foiled again.

ACT III.—Leslie and Ora lovers—"Mike is kilt entirely"—The murder of Alfred Brendon—Noel and Leonia—"Why did you murder him?"—Leslie must be accused of the murder"—The forged letter—"Deceived again"—"She is my promised wife."

ACT IV.—Leslie and Ora—Leonia overhears a confession of love—Noel and Leonia—"If she is false to me, she will rue it bitterly"—Noel and Mike—He arouses Noel's suspicions—"If she loves him, so help me heaven, I'll kill him"—Mrs. Fairmount refuses her consent to an engagement between Leslie and Ora—Arrest of Leslie for the murder of Alfred Brendon, the forged letter proves it, written to Miss Darrel—Leonia's confession—"Noel Corson is the murderer"—Noel overhears Leonia's confession, attempts to kill Leslie, Leonia throws herself before Leslie and receives the blow—Arrest of Corson—"I swore I'd kill him if she proved false"—Forgiven—Death of Leonia—Leslie vindicated.

We have tried to make the day a pleasant one for you. Come again next June. Good night to all, and a safe journey home.

Yours to serve,

FRANK M. STAHL, President.
